RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Principal Investigator & Project Coordinator

January 2017 - present

Project INTERACT, Pennsylvania State University

Project INTERACT (INternet, TEchnology, Romance, And Couple Time) is a longitudinal and daily diary study that seeks to understand how daily relationship interactions and quality are influenced by the presence of technology during couple time. As the Principal Investigator on this project, I conceptualized and designed this project. Along with my co-investigator, Michelle Drouin, and my research assistants, we are recruiting approx. 200 couples for this intensive longitudinal and daily diary study. I also will manage data collection, data management/cleaning, analysis, and research manuscript preparation. Throughout the project, I am managing and mentoring a team of undergraduate research assistants.

Principal Investigator & Project Coordinator

August, 2014 - July, 2016

Daily Family Life Project, Pennsylvania State University

The Daily Family Life Project was a longitudinal and daily diary study of family relationships that sought to understand the daily processes and variability in the coparenting quality of young children. As the Principal Investigator on this project, I conceptualized, designed, and recruited over 180 families for this intensive longitudinal and daily diary study. I also managed data collection, data management/cleaning, analysis, and research manuscript preparation. Throughout the project, I managed and mentored a team of undergraduate research assistants.

Graduate Research Assistant

August, 2010 - December, 2015

Project SIESTA, Pennsylvania State University

Advisor: Doug Teti, Ph.D.

Observational coding of parenting practices and behaviors as well as infant state and behaviors at bedtime, contributed to creation and revisions of coding schemes, developed observational coparenting scales at bedtime, created coding templates, authored and revised manuscripts and posters for presentation and publication, trained and managed other observational coders, assisted lab members with data analysis.

Graduate Research Fellow

August, 2013 - August, 2015

Family Foundations, Pennsylvania State University

Advisor: Mark Feinberg, Ph.D.

Funding: Prevention and Methodology Training (PAMT) Fellowship

Observational coding of coparenting behaviors, authored and revised manuscripts and posters for presentation and publication, data analysis of daily diary data, assisted other lab members with data analysis, conducted phone interviews, created codebooks, beta-tested the online version of the Family Foundations program, and so forth.

Graduate Research Assistant

August, 2010 – August, 2012

HDFS Department, Pennsylvania State University

Advisor: David Eggebeen, Ph.D.

Duties: Gathered and annotated relevant articles, co-authored a book chapter on the implications of fatherhood for men.

Honors Research

August, 2008 – June, 2010

Brigham Young University

Advisors: Jenet (Jacob) Erickson, Ph.D. & Erin. K. Holmes, Ph.D.

Duties: Proposed and conducted an original longitudinal research project, designed the surveys, input and analyzed data using SPSS, wrote the undergraduate honors thesis and defended it orally.

Undergraduate Research Assistant

May, 2009 – August, 2010

School of Family Life, Brigham Young University

Advisor: Erin Holmes, Ph.D.

Duties: Gathered relevant articles, input and analyzed data using SPSS, and so forth.

Research Analyst

September, 2008 – June, 2010

Institutional Assessment and Analysis Office, Brigham Young University

Duties: Assisted faculty with analyses and presentations, worked with SPSS, coded and analyzed qualitative data using SPSS text analysis, created charts and reports. 20 hours weekly.

Undergraduate Research Assistant

June, 2008 - December, 2008

Department of Psychology, Brigham Young University

Advisor: Bruce Brown, Ph.D.

Duties: Word and Excel processing, manuscript preparation, and data analysis.

Graduate Program Secretary

August, 2007 - December, 2007

Marriage and Family Therapy Department, Brigham Young University

Duties: Assisted faculty with transcription, project write-ups, poster design, etc.
